

Privacy Policy

Before using the service offered by the company STForex, you shall carefully read the following conditions of the Privacy Policy. The rules apply to all users of this website.

Restriction:

- This website and all its content is the intellectual property of the company STForex.
- No materials published on this website may be used without the permission of STForex. To obtain the permission, contact the Company by e-mail info@stforex.com.
- Copying of any information from the Company's website and its publication on other web resources is permitted only if the title contains the source of information with a link to that source.

The following principles are fundamental to the Company when protecting personal information of the Client:

- The Company does not sell the Client's personal data (name, address, email, phone, etc.) to anyone.
- The Company uses a variety of security methods to protect the Client's personal data from unauthorized access.

1. Personal Data

During the registration process on the Company's website, opening of a demo or trading account, the Company has the right to request from the Client the following personal data:

- Full name, phone, address, email, passport details.
- Proof of identity (passport, driving license).
- Proof of address (bank statement, utility bill).
- Information about the status of the trading account.

The Company collects personal data of the Client in order to:

- ensure personal identification of the Client;
- make sure that the Client complies with all the rules when using the Company's services;
- inform the Client about new products offered by the Company;
- process the Client's requests;
- send account information to the Client;
- improve the performance of the website;
- analyze statistical data for further improvement of the Company's service.

2. Cookies

For tracking and accounting of website visitors, the Company uses special files (Cookies), which are stored by the Client's web browser. For example, during subsequent visits, the Cookies signal to the website that the Client has already been to the resource and automatically enter login and password created by the Client during the first visit.

3. Data Protection

STForex adheres to strict security standards and uses advanced data protection technology. All information received by the Company from the Client is used for its intended purpose. The Company takes all the necessary precautions to protect the Client's information from loss, misuse, unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration or destruction.

The Client also plays an important role in protecting their personal data. The Company strongly recommends the Client not to share authorization details related to the Personal Area/trading account (login, password) with third parties.

4. Changes to the Privacy Policy

The Company reserves the right to make changes to this Privacy Policy at any time and shall notify the Client about such changes. In case of any questions, the Client may contact the Company by email info@stforex.com